

15th International Podocyte Conference and International Society of Glomerular Disease Meeting 2025

FROM GLOMERULAR BIOLOGY TO GLOMERULAR MEDICINE

For 25 years and counting, the International Podocyte Conference has been the most impactful meeting in glomerular biology and medicine. This unique biennial event gathers over 300 of nephrology's leading clinician-scientists, medical practitioners, researchers, and journal editors as well as the next generation of nephrology leaders. Over the years, IPC has launched many of the most significant discoveries in glomerular biology that have led to the latest advances in therapeutic approaches to glomerular disease. With a strong historical foundation in groundbreaking basic research on the podocyte, today's IPC program also includes the full spectrum of glomerular disease states, and spans topics from molecular biology to clinical trials.

For the first time in 2025, the International Podocyte Conference has joined with the International Society of Glomerular Disease (ISGD). Officially launched in conjunction with the 14th IPC conference in 2023, the ISGD is now a professional home for over 1,100 glomerular specialists from more than 80 countries worldwide.

ISGD is proud to present the 15th International Podocyte Conference from June 10–13, 2025 in Hamburg, Germany, in partnership with the University Medical Center Hamburg-Eppendorf (UKE), one of Europe's leading centers of excellence in rare kidney disease.

We hope that you will find the Conference of interest to your company.
